

THE MONEY MARKET.

THURSDAY, NOV. 27—P. M.

This being the National Thanksgiving Day, it is observed as a legal holiday throughout the United States, and therefore there are no day's markets to report or to comment upon. Thus, as the canal navigation for this season has virtually closed, so far as additional shipments are concerned, a fitting opportunity is offered for a review of the movements of grain toward the Atlantic seaboard since January 1. The canal this year opened on May 8, and the first receipts at New-York by the canal were in the week that began May 14. Therefore in the following table, which shows the receipt of all grains at the four principal Atlantic ports since January 1, as compared with the same time of 1878, the time is divided into two periods—January 1 to the date of the first receipt by the canal at New-York; and from that to the end of our last grain week, November 25. The total receipts at the four ports for this year to November 25 were 237,023,860 bushels, against 206,437,317 bushels for the same time of 1878; increase, 30,586,543 bushels. But of this increase New-York only gained 5,583,553 bushels, while Baltimore gained 17,591,707, Philadelphia 5,371,783, and Boston 2,047,458 bushels. The receipts at each of the four ports during each of the two periods before named and the total to date were as follows:
